NEW MILLS TO BE BUILT

Two Will Be Erected in Berkley This Summer.

OTHERS ARE IN SIGHT

The Fidelity International Company is Backing an Enterprise That Will Employ Six Hundred Hands at This Port—The Farmers Manufacturing Company to Enlarge Its Plant—A New Suburb.

It is stated on good authority that two new mills will be built in Berkley this summer, employing, when finished, fully 600 hands. The Fidelity International Company, of Philadelphia, is reported to be backing the enterprise with a capital of $2,000,000. The mills will be 45x200 feet, and three stories in height. They will be used for the manufacture of antiseptic fibre mattresses, pads, felts and yarns, and the plant will further conduct the manufacture of cotton-seed oil products, under special patents.

The company has already begun work in a number of leased factories, but intends, it is understood, to consolidate their business at this point where it can better be attended to. The latest and most improved machinery will be used.

The company was organized November 7th, 1898, and began business in leased factories January 1st, 1899. The Mercantile and Financial Times says the stock was recently listed at the Philadelphia Exchange and is attracting a great deal of attention among both investors and speculators, and that the company expects to declare a dividend of not less than 5 per cent., based on the sale of products manufactured and sold since the first of the present year. Mr. James Pollock, a carpet manufacturer of Philadelphia, is president and Mr. D. Lowenberg, of Norfolk, is one of the directors.

It can also be stated with certainty that the ground for the new mills will be broken during the coming ten days or two weeks, and the walls will be started before June 1st.

The manufacture of cotton seed oil products thus insured sees a beginning of the fulfillment of prophecies freely made in the past to the effect that this is the coming cotton seed oil manufacturing centre and shipping point of the country.

TO ENLARGE PLANT.
The Farmers' Manufacturing Company has purchased from Captain John L. Roper the land north of the shell road and west of the Norfolk and Western railroad for $17,500. This property is opposite the Chicora Mills and was bought for the purpose of enlarging the plant of Farmers' Manufacturing Company. Mr. J. F. East states that the business has outgrown present facilities and that his company is cramped for room. They propose to erect a large mill on the Norfolk and Western.

Measures East are now employing about 250 hands, and the new additions decided upon will nearly double their force. The buying of large tracts of timber on the Virginia Beach Southern extension and the building up of a big truck farm in Pungo district and building of a mill at Princess Anne Courthouse during the past year, has materially increased the scope and business of the company, hence this move.

A NEW SUBURB.
The Norfolk and Atlantic Terminal Company will call their new town at Sewell's Point North Norfolk, and the new hotelery Piney Beach Hotel, Work on this addition to Norfolk's suburbs will be pushed as rapidly as possible.

FORGING AHEAD.
Other enterprises are in process of formation, and have been mentioned from time to time in these columns, all tending to show the outside world that Norfolk is steadily moving forward in the acquirement of sources of labor and employment. The silk mill is a new and valuable enterprise, and has been let to contract. The Sewell's Point electric line, which is to connect the city with North Norfolk, a new suburb, is multiplying daily. The claim that Norfolk is forging ahead and destined to become the most populous and prosperous city in Virginia within the next decade. This is the view of business men in every department represented in the Board of Trade and Business Men's Association, which is daily receiving inquiries for information as to sites, etc.

SUPREME CONCLAVE.
GRAND GATHERING OF HEPTASOPHS IN BALTIMORE.

The Supreme Conclave of the Order of Heptasophs or S. W. M. in the United States will convene in its 55th biennial session in Baltimore on Tuesday next, in Heptasophs' Hall, No. 506 East Baltimore street, at 9 o'clock a. m., and will be presided over by Most Eminent Supreme Archon E. E. Randall, of that city.

The members and delegates from this city and Portsmouth will leave here on the Bay Line steamer Monday night for Baltimore. They are as follows: W. P. Gregory, Supreme Provoost; Geo. W. Wright, Supreme Secretary; J. L. Bunting, Supreme Treasurer, and A. C. Ward, Supreme Representatives, of Norfolk; Past Supreme Archon C. E. Outten, and Supreme Representative J. M. Hartlove, of Portsmouth.

This will in all probability be one of the most important sessions in the history of this body, as numerous propositions looking to a more rapid advancement of the order throughout the United States will be presented and some definite action taken.

The committee appointed at the last biennial session in the city of New York, for a ladies' branch of the order, having completed their work, will submit a report for adoption, and if approved it will become a feature of the organization.

The delegates from the various State jurisdictions will be quartered at the Hotel Lexington, Holiday and Lexington streets.

A Blocked Highway.
Fenchurch street, from Main to Wood, or its full length, is in a badly torn up condition, and partially blocked with curbing bricks and cobble stones. It has been in this condition for several weeks, and nothing has been done in the last week or two to better it, and the water and sewer pipes are understood to be all in position. The public, especially that party of it residing on that street, is very much interested to know when the street will be put in condition for travel and traffic. At night traveling on the street is both difficult and dangerous.

Time has proved the worth of the garments produced by Rudolph & Wallace.

VIRGINIA'S SOLDIERS
The State Militia Will Be Reorganized Shortly.

Major Alex Higgins, of Gen. Hasbroucke's Staff, Talks of the Fourth Regiment—Many Stay in Cuba—Col. Taylor and Others Home.

Colonel George W. Taylor arrived from Savannah over the Merchants' and Miners' Line last night. Captain Sheen and Adjutant Yeatman also came on the steamer. These officers were delayed in Savannah by some regimental affairs which had to be closed. The officers' horses were brought on the steamer, which accounts for Colonel Taylor and the other officers coming by water instead of by rail.

Colonel Taylor, as were all the other officers of the Fourth Regiment, was greatly pleased with the reception given the soldiers in Norfolk Friday night.

MILITARY REORGANIZATION.
Now that all of Virginia's soldiers enlisted for the Spanish-American war are mustered out the Virginia State Militia will shortly be reorganized. The reorganization will doubtless be upon the same lines as the former organization, but the militia will be strengthened in many ways. There will be no doubt a stricter examination of officers and men and the militia will be put more on the footing of the regular army.

Norfolk will doubtless continue to be the leading military city of the State. It is not known whether the Fourth Virginia, as formerly organized, will re-enter the State Guard. There is no doubt, however, that the headquarters of a regiment will be located here.

MAJ. HIGGINS INTERVIEWED.
An incident showing the love for "Old Virginia" that permeated the Fourth Virginia Regiment was told by Major Alex Higgins, of General Hasbroucke's personal staff yesterday. Said he: "In our mess we had a little jar of ointment which we regularly used on our table. It was Virginia salve, and when guests asked about it some one would tell them what it was, and I tell you we wouldn't have swapped it for the whole of Cuba."

Asked if he was glad to get back, Major Higgins replied: "Yes, sir; I and Cuba is a beautiful place in winter, but what it will be in summer I hardly know. Norfolk is good enough for me."

Major Higgins was on Colonel Taylor's staff, and when General Hasbroucke asked for him, the Colonel refused to give him up, and finally, on the General's insistence in his demand, Major Higgins was practically obliged to go back.

Both positions, and did so acceptably—a fact gleamed from others, which his modesty prevented his giving out.

NO CANNED BEEF.
Queried, however, about the canned and refrigerated beef, he stated that no canned beef was issued to the Fourth Virginia as a ration, and had only three or four times was there any kick on the meat rations, and that when too long exposure to the sun had caused the outside of the meat to spoil.

In such cases, when the meat got "high," said the Major, "the outside of the meat was cut off and thrown away, and the remainder stored. This resulted a few times in giving the boys half rations of meat, but that was all the inconvenience suffered. We had no meat on the hoof, and generally lived well; had in fact no cause to complain."

Asked if any of the boys expected to go back, he said:

"We left quite a number there. Some of these had gone into business for themselves, and others had gotten good jobs there. I got several into jobs there, and know that others did also. A number of the boys say they are going back, and I suppose they will."

Queried as to any of the Fourth re-enlisting for service, he remarked:

"While their money holds out I don't think a man of them will enlist, but after that is gone and they begin to look back and see that they didn't have so bad or hard a time after all, some of them may enlist."

AS TO REORGANIZATION.
The subject of reorganization of the companies in Norfolk being broached, Major Higgins said:

"Yes; I think the boys will want to keep up the old company organizations, and as soon as they have time to think it over will perhaps reorganize. I don't know how many regiments the State will organize, but the Fourth will probably want to be one of them. As for the officers, they will likely stay with the men until reorganized, but I hardly think they will any of them stay longer than that. Most of them are tired of soldiering."

It was remarked of the men who left jobs with the understanding that their places would be kept open: "I suppose a number of them will be taken back, but the majority of them stayed longer than it was thought they would, and their places are filled. All of them who wish will probably find jobs ready for them, however."

Major Higgins is looking well and feeling well, and, like the rest, heartily welcomed home.

MONUMENT FUND

It is Growing Slowly, but Steadily and Surely.

The Committee Discussing What Kind of Bronze Figure Will Be Secured for the Top of the Monument—Want a Standard Bearer.

Slowly, but steadily and surely, the money for the completion of the Confederate Monument is coming into the hands of the Committee on Subscriptions. Until recently it had been intended to have the unveiling and dedication of the monument occur on Memorial Day, which has been postponed to May 25th, but it is not likely that the monument will have received its bronze figures by that date, and a later date will have to be selected for its dedication.

Colonel Walter A. Taylor, chairman of the Monument Committee, is interesting himself in the character of the figure to be placed on the top of the monument. Several figures have been suggested, but none have been adopted. The amount of money raised will have much to do with the selection.

It was settled long ago that four bronze soldiers, representing the four branches of the military and naval service, should be placed on the four corners of the base of the monument. These bronze figures will cost about $1,000 each, it is said.

It is desired by many that an original figure be secured to adorn the top of the monument, something magnificent and striking. The allegorical design, "Peace," which was first selected, was too expensive, but some members of the Monument Committee believe that if about $5,000 above the amount it will take to pay for the figures at the base is raised, a suitable and striking original design in the allegorical nature of the "Peace" figure could be needed to carry out this idea of securing an original design, several thousand and yet to be raised. The Subscription Committee is hard at work raising the balance needed, and is being ably assisted by the Daughters of the Confederacy, whose organization has nobly done its part toward the erection of the monument.

Some veterans are in favor of crowning the monument simply with a bronze standard bearer. Mr. Fred Greenwood has received a picture of the monument erected in Chickamauga Park by the Virginia State Militia in honor of her soldiers who fought in the battle of Chickamauga. This monument, which is to be unveiled by Georgia at Chickamauga this week, is strikingly like the Norfolk monument, the shaft especially so, and it is in the bronze standard bearer, which some of the veterans want for the monument here. It is argued in favor of the standard bearer that it will cost not more than $2,500, or only about one half of what an original figure would cost.

VAN NOSTRAND--CAKE.
A NOONDAY WEDDING AT FLUSHING, LONG ISLAND.

The Flushing, L. I., Evening Journal of Wednesday contains the following: At the Congregational Church, at noon Wednesday, Miss Nellie M. Van Nostrand, one of the most charming young women of Flushing, became the bride of John William Cake, of Norfolk, Va.

It was a pretty wedding. The church, the interior of which is always admired since the improvements were completed, was beautifully decorated with foliage and flowers.

The decorations were arranged by the young ladies of the Christian Endeavor Society. A large number of guests were present. In fact the church was crowded. During the interim while the guests were arriving J. W. Treadwell rendered a number of classical selections, in which the fine new organ was heard to splendid advantage.

At 12 o'clock, as the opening bars of the Lohengrin march emanated from the organ, the bride and groom entered the church. The ushers were Howard Valentine, Ross Delamater, Ira U. Travis, Jr., Elmer Vandewater, Richard Vandewater, Elbert Hawley.

Miss Ada Valentine, the maid of honor, who is a niece of the bride, followed. She wore a gown of white over blue silk, with blue trimmings, and a blue hat. She carried a bouquet of pink roses.

The bride was accompanied by her brother, Harry C. Van Nostrand. Her gown was a handsome creation of white mousseline de sole over white silk. The train was short. The bow-tie effect was brought out in the embroidery and trimming all white. The bride wore a white shepherdess hat without veil. White lace and white plumes predominated in the trimming of the hat. The bride's bouquet was of white roses.

The groom and his best man, a cousin, were of Norfolk, and met at the altar. The ceremony was performed by the pastor of the church, Rev. John Abbott French. The Mendelssohn wedding march was played as the bridal party left the church.

The party were driven to the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Smith, 48 Barclay street, where a reception took place. About seventy relatives and near friends of the families were present. The wedding breakfast was served by Sutter.

Mr. and Mrs. Cake left on an afternoon train for the South. They will visit Philadelphia, Washington, Baltimore, Old Point Comfort and other points of interest on their way to Norfolk, where they will reside in the future.

Miss Van Nostrand is widely acquainted in Flushing, and is very popular. She was graduated from the High School with the class of '90, and with the class of '91. She taught three years at the High School, Flushing, and three years at the High School in Montclair, N. J. She is a member of the Congregational Church, was a teacher in the Sunday School, was president of the Christian Endeavor Society, and is identified with all the other societies and guilds in the church.

Mr. Cake is a son of C. D. Cake, and is interested with his father in the lumber and milling business at Norfolk, which is conducted under the name of C. D. Cake & Sons. Mr. Cake, the groom, was educated at the Baltimore Institute, and is an architect by profession. He was attached to the battalion of engineers at Willets Point for some time.

Mr. Cake's sister was among the guests at the wedding. The bridal gifts were very numerous and in great variety.

PRIVATE EXCHANGE
Fire Department Improves Its Already Fine Alarm System.

Its Own Exchange Now Connects It Directly With the Several Engine Houses, Chief's Residence, Police Station, Etc.—Delays Avoided.

The Fire Department has added to its already efficient fire alarm system a private telephone exchange of its own, which will enable the department to transmit to the various engine houses, with no loss of time whatever, the telephone alarms received at headquarters. The exchange has direct connection with all the engine houses, the chief's residence, the police station, the exchanges of both telephone companies and the residence of Chief Electrician Smith. That it will enable the department to give more expeditious service when telephone alarms are received there can be no doubt.

The exchange was put in by Chief Electrician Smith at a nominal cost. It has been done without the knowledge of the Board of Fire Control and is a surprise to everybody except those connected with the Fire Department. The cost is covered by the appropriations for the telephone exchange, Chief Ryan and Electrician Smith are members. The exchange has in all twelve switches, all of which are in use, with the exception of three.

Heretofore when fire alarms are sent in by telephone the sender has only to call for No. 591 over either the old or the new 'phone and they will be immediately connected with the Fire Department exchange, and the alarm will be repeated to whichever engine house is nearest the fire. It is here that the saving of time is made. As soon as the alarm is received the same is repeated immediately over the private exchange. There is no waiting for connections or for the people to get through talking. Owing to an extra switch the exchange can always be secured at once by calling for 591. Even if some one else is talking the telephone girl can, for the extra switch will make the department accessible by 'phone at all times.

Chief Ryan has always been awake to the necessity of having a faultless alarm system, and the improvement in the system sometime ago made the system as nearly perfect as possible, and the private exchange will make the telephone a safe and expeditious alarm.

RELIC OF 1813.
ANOTHER OF LORD ROSS' IRON BULLETS FOUND BURIED.

A curious find was made one day this last week by Mr. W. L. Valentine, contractor for Mr. J. S. Darling's new stables on Cove street, while digging the trenches for the foundation walls. A workman unearthed at the depth of about seven to eight feet, a cannon ball of about 3 inches diameter, while in all its characteristics is the mate to that imbedded in the wall of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, and from the place in which it was found, the depth in the earth and the condition of the rusted iron sphere, strongly suggests that it was one of the number launched by Lord Ross' ships during their bombardment of Norfolk in the war of 1812-13.

The ground in which it was found was originally a part of the cove which extended from the old Granby street bridge back nearly to Church street, and the water at this point was three or four feet. The present ground is therefore made earth to the depth of several feet. Evidently the ball fell in the water and sank in the mud in the bottom. When the cove was filled in the ball was safely buried, and has there remained until this time. How many more of these shot are lying safely planted in the made soil of this city is uncertain.

Mr. Valentine prizes the relic highly and will furnish it a proper setting.

ASCENSION DAY.
WILL BE OBSERVED BY KNIGHT TEMPLARS MAY 11.

Grice Commandery No. 16, Knights Templar, will not observe Ascension Day, May 11, until the Sunday following, which will be May 14. On the Sunday following the commandery, headed by Colonel Harry Hodges as grand commander, will attend divine worship at some church yet to be selected. The Knights will wear full uniform. The committee is chairman of the arrangements for the affair.

This Week—The United States Court Will Be in Session Again

This Week—The News of the Other Courts.

The United States Court was in session again yesterday and will meet also on Monday for several days' session. Besides the several bankruptcy cases disposed of Friday, two more came up yesterday. There will be several others. These cases are under the general bankruptcy law which was passed by Congress at its last session. Despite the onerous legal form which must be gone through to secure a discharge in bankruptcy under this general law, a great many are clamoring to be relieved of their debts and begin their life over again with a clean slate, as it were.

ZELINKA WANTS DISCHARGE.
The case of I. Zelinka was called yesterday. Zelinka is under a burden of debts amounting to $5,000 and he asks for a discharge in bankruptcy. Levine Bros., of New York, are fighting against the discharge on the ground that Zelinka failed to account for goods valued at $600, which were consigned to him by that firm. Counsel for Zelinka, Mr. P. J. Morris, interposed a demurrer to evidence, claiming that the goods were not delivered as a consignment, but that it was a straight sale. Mr. R. R. Hicks represents Levine Bros. The case was continued until Monday.

Charles E. Carroll, of Chatham, Norfolk county, was discharged in bankruptcy.

The case of Essex vs. the British steamship Lustral, in a libel suit for $10,000, was argued.
